On Monday, Microsoft launched an OpenAI service as part of its Azure cloud platform, offering businesses and start-ups the ability to incorporate models like ChatGPT into their own systems. The company has already been building AI tools into many of its consumer products, such as a DALL-E 2 feature in its Bing search engine that can create images based on a text prompt, and the Information reported recently that it's working to bring more of them to Microsoft Office as well.
What will Microsoft incorporate in its own systems?

Peter and Elizabeth took a taxi to attend the night party in the city. While in the party, Elizabeth collapsed and was rushed to the hospital.

Peter and Elizabeth opted to take a taxi to the lively night party being hosted in the city, as they didn't want to worry about parking or driving back home. The event was filled with music, laughter, and a sea of people dressed in their finest attire. However, while they were in the midst of the festivities, Elizabeth suddenly collapsed and was immediately rushed to the hospital. The events that unfolded that night were unexpected, and left Peter feeling worried and uncertain about what the future held.

Summarize this for a call center agent:
Agent: Thank you for calling ADM. Who am I am speaking to?
Customer: Hello, my name is Jeremiah Contreras. I own a small business and have some questions regarding payroll processing.
Agent: Good morning, Jeremiah, before we get started may I ask you a few questions so that I better answer your questions today?
Customer: Thank you that is quite helpful. Are there specific regulations that I need to follow?
Agent: Certain aspects of payroll processing are regulated by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and the Department of Labor (DOL)

A customer named Jeremiah Contreras called ADM with questions about payroll processing for his small business. The agent asked for some information to better answer the customer's questions. The agent also informed the customer that certain aspects of payroll processing are regulated by the IRS and DOL.
